Nineteen Hundred and Fifty-Three

West High School

Waterloo, Iowa

Curtain Call

Between the covers of the 1953 annual are found the records of the happenings during the past year within the halls of West. This year's annual is a book for each of you. On its pages you will find highlights of the activities of '52-'53. Glancing through, you will be reminded of the fun and study in the halls and classrooms. Here you will find your friends, classmates, teachers, clubs, and activities. You will relive athletic contests, parties, assemblies, themes, and production rehearsals. Here is a story of a year of good times, fine achievements, and lasting memories.

The annual staff is proud to stage the events for you, so, with each passing year, your WAHAWK will become more treasured. This is your play, because you lived it—each day you acted in the big cast that made it a success. No words could better describe our production than those of William Shakespeare:

"All the world's a stage,
And all the men and women merely players.
They have their exits and their entrances,
And one man in his time plays many parts."

Let us now lift the curtain and behold a year at West. The stage is ready and YOU are in the spotlight.

Personnel

PRODUCERS

Superintendent of Schools

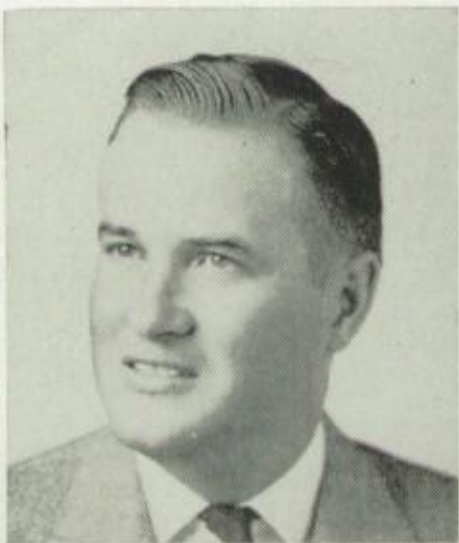

Heading this year's staff of PRODUCERS was Jack M. Logan, superintendent of schools. To him goes credit for the flawless production of such a large scale extravaganza, for it was Mr. Logan's planning which was behind the smooth working of every detail and his leadership which brought out the best in every scene.

Working with Mr. Logan behind the scenes were the members of the Board of Education, our play's producers, who gave many hours to the personal interest of Wahawk activities. Those of us who learned to know more about them grew to respect the ideals and goals which they so thoughtfully placed before us. To them we owe our thanks for a successful season.

Top Row: William A. Dewees, Dr. R. S. Gerard, E. A. Ralston, Mrs. H. W. Rehder

DONALD F. STRAHAN

Vice-Principal

Assisting with the immense production at West High was Mr. Strahan, vice-principal and business manager. His quick wit and willing spirit will always stand out in the minds of those who worked under his able direction.

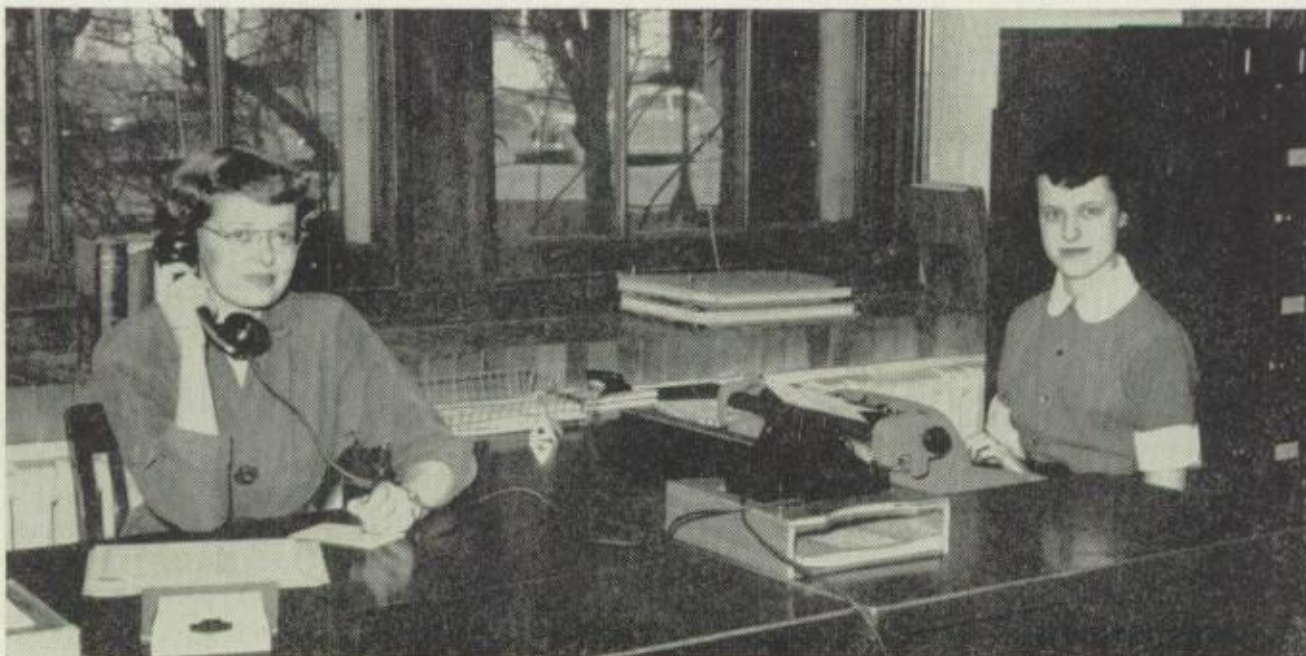

WILLIAM W. GIBSON

Principal

Definitely qualified for directing West High—1953, was our principal, Mr. Gibson. Wahawks owed many delightful hours to the fine companionship of the man who so ably prepared us for our debut on a much larger stage.

Pauline Dryden and Mrs. JoAnn Townsend are pictured below in a typical office scene. Their pleasing personalities and pleasant smiles gave a cheery touch to the many duties of our school secretaries.

TECHNICAL ADVISORS

Serving as technical advisors for our play were the 51 members of the West High faculty. They not only guided Wahawks in their search for knowledge but also helped to develop personality and outside interests.

It was because of their time and effort that all details behind the scenes and on stage progressed so smoothly. To the technical advisors, then, goes much applause for a most successful season.

STAGE MANAGERS

From September to June the custodians kept the stage in condition for the actors. Their numerous duties often kept them unseen from the audience, but whether mowing the field, washing the blackboards, or sweeping the halls, their efforts as stage managers were appreciated by the cast and directors. Here they take a moment to pose for the WAHAWK photographer.

IN MEMORIAM

MARLYS A. GALLERY

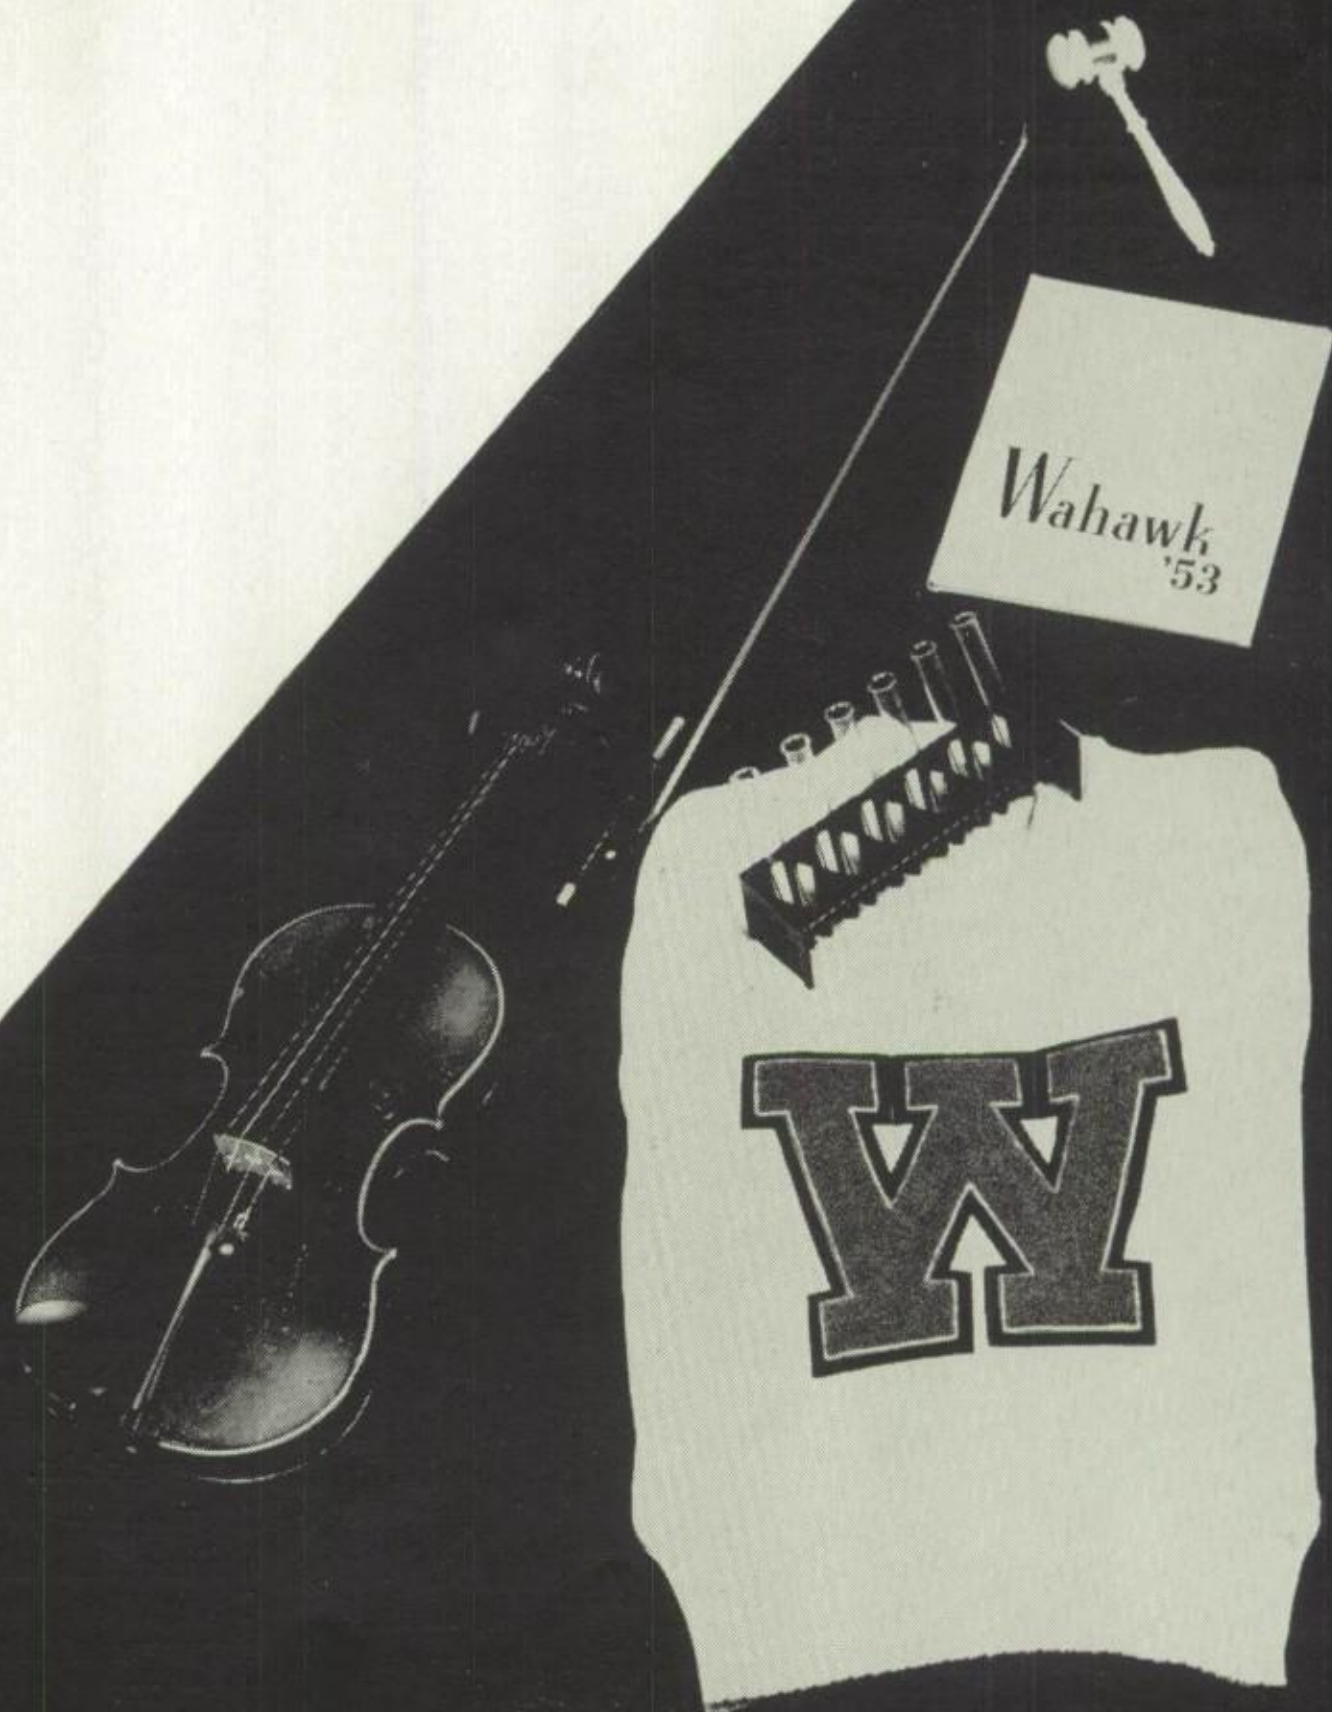

September 17, 1936 to April 10, 1953

She, too, knew the thrill and spirit of an athletic event, the hustle to get to class on time, the awe of learning new things, and the pride in the strains of the loyalty song. For she, too, was a part of all that is West High.

This year the door closed on the life of our sophomore classmate, but her memory will never die in the hearts of those who knew and loved her.

Tom Winder, secretary, and Jim Young, vice-president, look on as prexy John Beem directs plans for student activities during the first semester.

Democracy on a small scale fully describes the West High Student Senate as it practiced government within the student body. First and second semester presidents were John Beem and Gary Hayes respectively; they were assisted by Miss Faith Kurtzweil and Mr. Gibson along with the guidance of individual committee sponsors.

Committees played a major part in the activities of the year as they worked with the Senate and in coordination with homerooms.

The Scholarship Committee presented skits on "How to Study" to the homerooms and held a campaign on improving students' vocabularies by the "word-a-day" method. It also published reports on scholastic standings and took a survey of study habits.

Striving to create better attitudes among the students was the Citizenship Committee, which held an election and straw vote during the national presidential election.

Looking over a Civil Defense poster are Dick Mahnke and Chuck Solberg, chairmen of the Safety Committee.

Tabulation of Golden W service points was the chief job of the Extracurricular Committee members, who also conducted surveys on student participation in activities.

All-city dances, moonlights, and the Junior-Senior Prom were only a part of the busy schedule of the Social Committee. The success of activity night was also a tribute to its fine planning.

Under the sponsorship of the Safety Committee, students became more aware of the importance of Civil Defense and first aid. Another successful project was the enforcement of "no parking" during school hours across the street from the school.

Through the efforts of the Auditorium Committee, the student body benefited from excellent talent on the Wahawk stage. Presentations of some widely known performers made this one of our outstanding years of assemblies.

The Thrift Committee conducted a survey to check lockers without locks, made a report on the condition of the school clocks, and created an interest in the lost and found department.

The Student Senate worked as a closely knit organization for better feeling in the halls of West.

Sandra Seibert, Ann McLaughlin, Jim Rich, and Jim Sisson discuss decorations and details for the Junior-Senior Prom.

Carol Gibson and Janet Neidt, co-chairmen of the Extracurricular Committee, spend their spare time recording service points for Golden W cards.

GAVELIERS

Gaveliers, an organization in its second year, is a club for homeroom presidents. Larry Woodard and Jim Rich served as presidents first and second semester respectively.

Originally the club was organized for the purpose of familiarizing students with correct parliamentary procedure. Gradually it became a group which assisted with securing homeroom programs and promoting school activities. The goal of its members was to co-operate with the Student Senate in the various functions of the student body.

Perhaps in the future this group will become as essential a part of the student government as the Student Senate.

BOYS' STATE

Six boys represented West High at Hawkeye Boys' State in June, 1952. The annual assembly of boys from all over Iowa was held at Camp Dodge, nine miles from Des Moines.

For one week 720 boys lived in a model democracy and elected their own officials on a state legislative basis. In the election of 16 state officials West took two titles: Ronnie Moore, supreme court judge, and Dick Mahnke, commerce commissioner.

To quote one of the boys who attended: "It was a week spent learning about state and national government operations through actual experience."

SHARPS AND FLATS

Several musicians from the music department combined their talents in some small ensembles for music contests or for the benefit of school productions. A few of these groups performed at civic affairs.

In November five Wahawks ventured to Des Moines to participate in the All-State Band. For two days they worked with students from all over Iowa, and the experience was climaxed by a concert in the KRNT Theater.

Students who represented West in the All-State Band were Gary Yarrington, Jim Beinke, LaVonne Harper, Charles Solberg, and Wesley Bentrude.

Representing West at the state contest on April 25 was the clarinet quartet, which received a Division I rating. Division I ratings also went to LaVonne Harper, Charles Solberg, and Sandra Havens for clarinet solos and Carolyn Gilliland, piano solo.

Those who received Division II ratings were Joyce Branson, drum solo; Marylynn Brown, piano solo; and Delaine McChesney, Jane Rowe, Sylvia Grassfield, Joyce Branson, and Ann Bluedorn, drum ensemble.

LaVonne Harper, Sandra Havens, Charles Solberg, and Marilyn Young combined their talents in a clarinet quartet which received a first division rating in the state music contest.

Marlin McCann, Craig Campbell, Bill Elliot, and Jim Cagley harmonize on one of their numerous songs which became so popular among the student body. The quartet's accompanist was Larry Cornett.

Jean Madill, Janet Neidt, and Jean Molgren, in the second year as a trio, vocalize in preparation for one of their many appearances. Emma Jean Burton served as their accompanist.

ORCHESTRA

Highlighting a full year's activities for the forty-three orchestra members, under the baton of Mr. Richard Baker, were the "Evening of Music," the annual Christmas musical, and the Spring Music Festival. To complete its busy schedule, the orchestra also performed at the fall and spring plays and attended the music department banquet at the Ti-Pi-Tin Inn.

Miss Dorothy Johnson directed the string section of the group.

SILVER STRINGS

Silver Strings, the newest of the musical organizations, is conducted by Miss Dorothy Johnson.

Although the string students in the group had a good background of classical orchestra music, which is absolutely essential, it was necessary to glamorize and inject some showmanship into their program.

The music played was varied-classical, semi-classical, novelties, and music from stage shows, with particular emphasis placed on the importance of learning the styles of many composers. Since the music for this type of ensemble is extremely limited, all of it was arranged by Miss Johnson.

Nine public performances were made by the group. Soloists were Arlen Riggs, string bass; Craig Campbell, vocalist; John Witt, pianist; and the Silver Strings Quintet composed of Albert Simcox, Joan Grappendorf, Eva Jones, Delores Stanley, and Joan Cnossen. Connie Cohrt and Donajo Lynch were accompanists. Master of Ceremonies was Bob Sauer.

BAND

The largest enrollment in the history of the West High band made necessary the development of two separate units. These groups met first and fourth hours for practice. The mid-winter concert, two programs at Sloan Wallace, assemblies, and the Spring Music Festival featured the musicians in a busy year's schedule, which was climaxed by a party at the Ti-Pi-Tin Inn with the orchestra and chorus.

Drum majors were Ken Knutsen and Jane Rowe. Football half times, civic parades, and the Band Jubilee were major activities during their season.

TROUBADOURS

The Troubadours, directed by Mr. Marvin Easter, is a group of boys who are preparing for senior chorus. They met four days a week for practice and combined with other high school choruses in the Christmas musical.

CHORUS

Combining their talents in the mixed chorus were the members of Philomel, the girls' glee club directed by Miss Naneen Davis, and Minnesingers, the boys' group under Mr. Marvin Easter's direction. The chorus, under the direction of Mr. Easter, was one of the busiest organizations at West. Participating in "An Evening With Music," the Christmas program, the spring festival, and the singing for several assemblies and club meetings, these energetic musicians still found time to enjoy the annual band, orchestra, and chorus party held at the Ti-Pi-Tin Inn.

I. S. T. C. DISCUSSION TOURNAMENT

Thirteen students took part in the Iowa State Teachers College Discussion Tournament held at T. C. on November 14 and 15, 1952.

Two days were spent discussing the problem, "What Type of World Organization Should the United States Support?" Bills were then presented to a model senate.

The group, which received eighteen superior ratings, was coached by Miss Ruth Wilson and Miss Marie Shellard.

Sarah Nadler and LaVonne Harper displayed their creative abilities by winning first in state and second in district poetry contests respectively.

TOMAHAWKS

Tomahawks, a club in its first year of organization, was open to all high school students who were interested in creative writing. Meetings were spent writing and discussing poems, plays, essays, scripts, and letters.

Mr. Karl Anderson was sponsor.

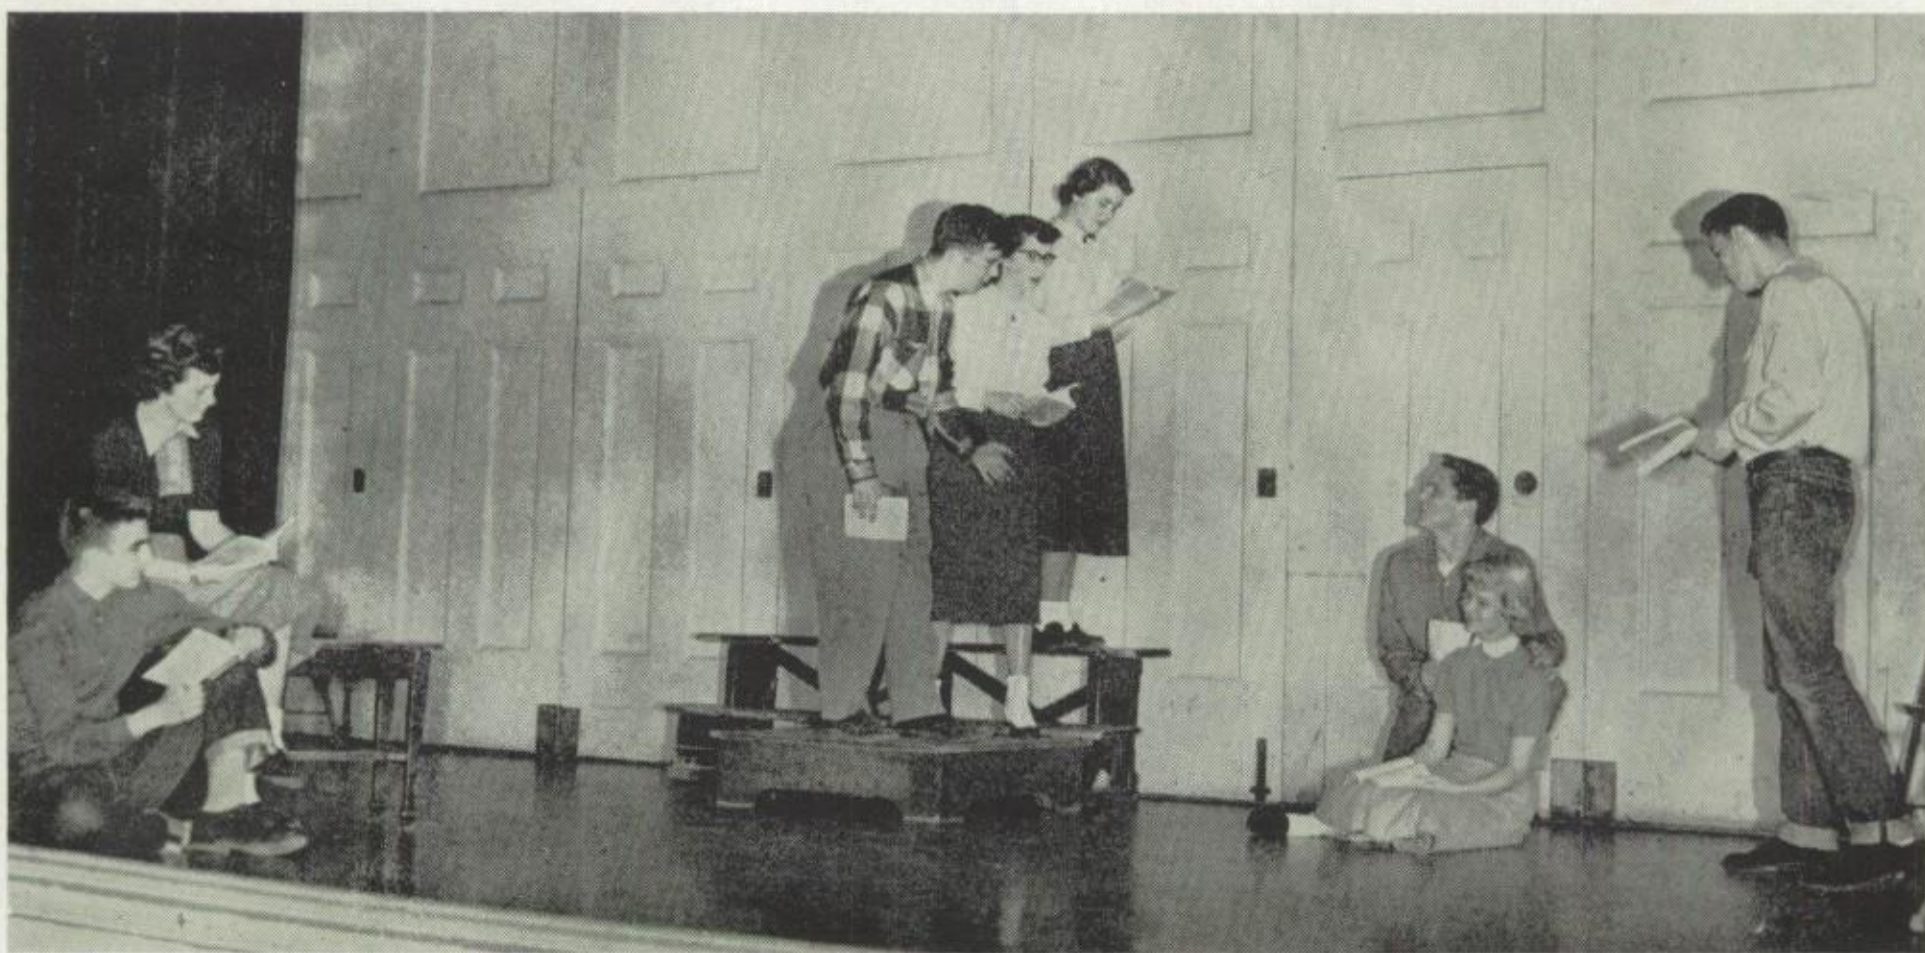

Rhea Loris Ressler, Kelvin Moeller, Sarah Nadler, Bob Sauer, Anne Beem, Stewart Davis, and John Adix are caught by the cameraman in a scene from the fall play, Father of the Bride

"FATHER OF THE BRIDE"

Weddings are beautiful; that is, they're beautiful to everyone except Father. He finds that a simple wedding does not stop at a wedding dress, a preacher, and a church ceremony but includes everything from Buckingham caterers to finding a lost bridegroom. But as the hour grows near, things begin to shape, and Father's worries soon blossom into a delightful memory.

"SMILIN' THROUGH"

"Smilin' Through" portrays an ancient tragedy visited upon the heads of the younger generation. It deals with a tragedy fifty years back when a rejected suitor shot the woman he pretended to love on her wedding night. As the years pass, a boy and girl of the younger generation of these families fall in love. The spirit of the slain girl "Smilin' Through" was the highlight of the excellent drama, which was presented May 21 and 22 under the direction of Miss Ruth Wilson.

IN BLACK AND WHITE

Sarah Nadler, editor, Connie Ross, news editor, Steve Showers and Dick Poe, sports editors, consider possible improvements for future issues of the SPECTATOR.

Keeping the financial side of the SPECTATOR in order are Ann McLaughlin, business manager; LaVonne Harper, assistant editor; and Shirley McChesney, advertising manager.

SPECTATOR

The SPECTATOR staff, with Sarah Nadler as editor, informed the student body every two weeks of the latest happenings at West. A competent staff compiled features, sports, statistics and editorials for the students.

Cutting galleys, pasting, proofreading, rewriting, and soliciting ads are all scenes which were familiar in Room 11 where staff and faculty sponsor, Richard Carey, worked for bigger and better SPECTATORS.

WAHAWK

As the years go by, there is no better way to recall good times and fond memories than by leafing through the pages of an annual. This was the thought in the minds of the WAHAWK staff members as they planned and worked on a book that the students would enjoy having. Only by the complete co-operation of each member of the staff was this 1953 book created. Many hours outside of school, minor disagreements, give-and-take, cold suppers, occasional loss of tempers, cutting, pasting, and frayed nerves combined to bring you the record of your play from curtain call to finale. It is a treasure chest of memories — for you.

Mary Hileman, art editor, and Anne Beem, assistant editor, seem to be finding plenty of typing for Jane Rowe, copy chairman.

Getting ready to leave for the I.H.S.P.A. meeting in Iowa City are Rhea Loris Ressler, LaVonne Harper, Connie Ross, Terry Stevens, Nancy Booth, and Mr. Carey.

LaVonne Harper and Nancy Booth glance through the issue of the Iowa High School Journalist which announces their election as presidents of I. H. S. P. A.

IOWA HIGH SCHOOL PRESS ASSOCIATION

The Iowa High School Press Association is an organization of high school journalists which offers critical service to student newspapers.

Five West High girls and Mr. Richard Carey attended its annual conference at the State University of Iowa last fall. In a general assembly of the 550 delegates, West was elected to provide a president of the I. H. S. P. A. for the year of 1952-1953. The advisory board of publications of West High chose Nancy Booth and LaVonne Harper to serve in that capacity. LaVonne will be in charge of the state meeting next fall.

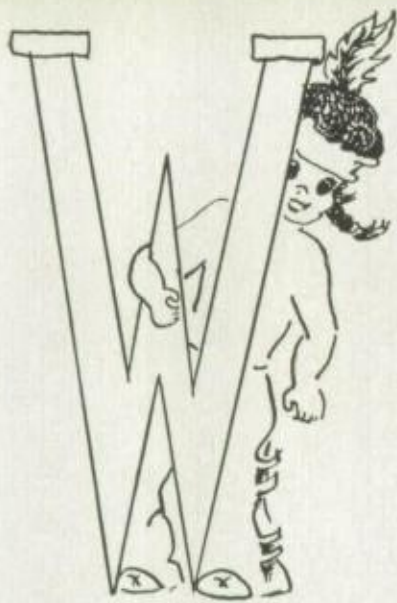

QUILL AND SCROLL

Quill and Scroll is an honorary high school journalistic society. West High's chapter was granted its charter in 1926 and since then has initiated about 170 members.

In order to qualify for membership, a Wahawk must do outstanding work on a student publication and be in the upper one-third of his class. Pins of the Quill and Scroll emblem are awarded to those who meet these requirements.

Those who received the award this year were as follows:

Nancy Booth	Barbara Klove	Jane Rowe
Mary Brennan	Shirley McChesney	Arlene Smith
Jay Cohen	Ann McLaughlin	Terry Stevens
Joan Grappendorf	Sarah Nadler	Damon Swanson
Mary Hileman	Connie Ross

TOWARD THE GOLDEN W

TERPSICHOREA

Terpsichorea, named for the Goddess of Dancing, is an organization of girls with special talent and skill in modern dancing. Connie Ross headed the group, whose members took part in the dance assembly and variety show. Junior members of the group performed solo dances at Commencement.

PAVLOVIANS

A group similar to Terpsichorea, Pavlovians is a club which develops the skills of those girls interested in modern dancing. This organization also played an active part in "Lullaby Follies" and the preparation of the Commencement dance program. Sharon Woolhiser was president.

TAP

Wahawks are "taking to tap." This year the four instructors were responsible for the tapping toes of nearly 200 guys and gals. Their efforts resulted in the presentation of everything from simple time steps to catchy snycopated rhythm.

Mrs. Alta Emerson is sponsor of all three dance groups.

MAKE-UP COMMITTEE

Thanks to the make-up committee, there never was a "paleface" on our Wahawk stage. Grease paint, rouge, and lipstick helped to brighten the faces of all who appeared in school productions. A lot of credit is due this committee which, under the direction of Miss Jane Parrish, made up all the "squaws" and "chiefs" in each West production this year.

COSTUME COMMITTEE

West High productions wouldn't click if it weren't for the costume committee. This committee, under the student chairmanship of Kathryn McHugh, was responsible for making, begging, or borrowing all costumes for each production at West. It has done a wonderful job this year with the help of the faculty advisors, Miss Adalene Wagner and Miss Gladys Grabe.

LIGHT CREW

Working behind the scenes to make every West High production a success was the light crew. These boys deserve a lot of credit for their hard work on variety show, spring and fall plays, musical productions, Christmas program, and student assemblies.

Jim Wheeler served as group chairman and Mr. Lyle Anderson as sponsor.

MAD MASTERS

Mad Masters, a newly-organized art club, became a well-known group this year. Its membership was open to anyone interested in art. Outstanding project of the year was the variety show stage. Also commendable were the jobs done cleaning up the art room and presenting Abe Lincoln's statue with a birthday present — a new coat of paint.

Virginia Hushagen presided over the group, which was sponsored by Mr. Charles Downs.

STAGECRAFTERS

One group West High could not get along without is the Stagecrafters. To them goes the credit for stage construction for the variety show, plays, and Christmas program.

The faculty sponsor, Mr. Don Wieland, worked closely with the president, Bill Menefee; vice-president, Jay Cohen; and recorder, Dale RuLon, for an excellent year.

TOWEL SERVICE

Those students seen carrying huge stacks of towels to and from the physical education classes are the towel assistants. These faithful students see that each physical education class during the day is furnished with towels. After class they collect the towels and recount them.

This is a voluntary service which takes away a daily study hall. Service points are awarded for this task.

Mrs. Alta Emerson and Mr. Glenn Strobridge are the instructors of the physical education classes to whom the towel assistants are responsible.

MOVIE OPERATORS

The motion picture operators, under the direction of Miss Marie Shellard, performed a great service for the teachers of our school. By having the boys operate the machines, the teachers were relieved of this responsibility.

Serving in a voluntary capacity, motion picture operators gave up their study halls to run the machines. The two chief supervisors of this group were Jim Wheeler and Lyle Rachuy.

The school owns three motion picture machines which were in almost constant use, proving that visual aids are popular teaching devices at West High School.

STADIUM USHERS

Assisting with the ushering at stadium affairs was a group of boys under the direction of Miss Lucille Nash. These boys, with their pleasing "hello's," rendered their services in all kinds of weather to serve the patrons at the football games. They also ushered for the Commencement program.

AUDITORIUM USHERS

Guests at school productions received friendly welcomes from the Ushers' Club. Besides their participation in school performances, the girls assisted in ushering at some of the civic programs held at West.

Miss Clara Hansmeier sponsored the club, whose membership included approximately 40 girls.

LOOKING AHEAD

Through the future clubs at West, students were given an opportunity to acquire an insight into the careers which may be of special interest to them. The purpose of clubs of this type was to acquaint members with every angle of their possible future fields and to prepare them for worthwhile careers. Speakers, discussions, movies, and field trips were some of the ends by which students were familiarized with the fields of their choice.

FUTURE BUSINESS LEADERS OF AMERICA

F. B. L. A., sponsored by Miss Bessie Young, is affiliated with the United Business Education Association at Washington, D. C. It is a club designed to acquaint students with the different phases of business, to prepare them for a useful occupation, and to carry on that occupation in a manner that will bring the greatest good to the greatest number of people. During the year, they made field trips to The Iowa Public Service Company, Black's, Waterloo Savings Bank, and other smaller businesses.

FUTURE NURSES' OF AMERICA

This year's Future Nurses' Club was composed of 65 junior and senior girls who were interested in exploring the field of nursing and possibly in becoming nurses. Faculty advisors were Mrs. Mildred Redmond, R. N., and Mrs. Alta Emerson, physical education teacher.

Meetings included many well-qualified speakers, a field trip to the Mental Health Institute in Independence, and investigation and reports of nursing schools. The girls assisted with T. B. patch tests and a survey of teeth in the junior high school.

Officers were Jean Madill, president; Mary Brennan, vice-president; and Normajean Cochran, secretary-treasurer.

FUTURE TEACHERS OF AMERICA

Exploring the field of teaching and its opportunities were West High's Future Teachers of America. This club, organized in 1950, is affiliated with the National Education Association. Miss Clara Hansmeier and Mrs. Alta Emerson served as faculty sponsors. Officers were Nancy Booth, president; Sarah Nadler, vice-president; and Ann McLaughlin, secretary-treasurer.

Outstanding speakers from the Waterloo Public School System included Miss Evelyn Peterson, director of elementary education; Dr. Ralph Austermiller, director of curriculum; and Miss Glenda Mabrey, visiting teacher. Senior members took part in a visitation program in the Waterloo elementary schools.

HI-Y

The purpose of Hi-Y is expressed in its motto: "Clean Speech, Clean Sportsmanship, Clean Scholarship, and Clean Living."

The fifty West High boys composing this club met each week at the Y. M. C. A. Officers for the year included Dale Huff, president; Bob Keiper, vice-president; Don Roeder, secretary-treasurer; and Gordon Moser, chaplain.

Under the sponsorship of Mr. Lewis Huff, the club undertook several successful projects, among which was participation in the Youth in Government Program at Des Moines. Four boys, Hank Rueling, Bob Merfeld, Don Roeder, and Dale Huff, gained two days of actual experience in their visit to the Iowa Legislature. Another event was a dance after an East-West basketball game, which was a success both financially and socially.

FRIENDSHIP CLUB

West High's Friendship Club, working side by side with the Y. W. C. A., promoted true friendship among girls of all races and religions. All West High girls were eligible for membership. Meetings were held once each month, and under the sponsorship of Miss Lucille Nash and Miss Gladys Grabe, the girls enjoyed programs and speakers of various types. Officers included Terry Stevens, president; Gretchen Todd, vice-president; Anne Beem, secretary; and Betty Busby, treasurer.

Many Friendship functions were closely affiliated with "Y" activities. West participated in the annual "Hanging of the Greens." Good will was extended to a needy family through the Family Service League, and money was sent to the Community Chest at Thanksgiving time. Another helping hand was extended during the Christmas holidays by the donation of canned goods to worthy families.

BIBLE CLUB

Jim Wheeler handed the gavel to Wesley Bentrude at the close of the first semester, turning over his duties as president of Bible Club.

This year the club's enrollment has increased immensely, with the present active membership about sixty.

Mrs. Mae Keiber, the club's sponsor, helped Lynn Dunkerton and LaVonne Harper, program chairmen, in securing interesting speakers and a variety of programs for the club's noon meetings.

tained an average grade point of 3.4 for three consecutive semesters.

Presidents were Jay Cohen and John Beem first and second semesters respectively. Miss Beatrice Zeuch was faculty sponsor.

T & I AND CO-OP

Already on the road to future professions are the T & I and Co-op students. By working half-days, they received beneficial and practical experience for later life. The other half-days were spent attending school in order to maintain their academic levels.

Through this program, students were able to earn money while they learned and had a chance to look into a probable profession.

CAMERA CLUB

Camera Club, organized for the purpose of studying photography, was sponsored by Mr. Johnson. At the meetings talks were given by several professional photographers on methods and technique of picture taking and developing, and members showed colored slides of their vacations.

THERMALIERS

Thermaliers was a club of boys who were interested in model airplanes and their construction. Meetings were spent constructing planes for contest entry.

Mr. Marvin Easter sponsored Thermaliers.

Cheering Wahawks on to victory were the eight varsity cheerleaders. These peppy girls, led by captain Janet Adams, in white letter sweaters and pleated skirts, were always on hand to cheer for the team whether in victory or in defeat.

The five sophomore cheerleaders were also essential factors in rousing the spirit for athletic events.

Varsity Club

One of the most active of the numerous clubs at West this year was the Varsity Club. Its members, those boys who earned a letter in any varsity sport, were kept busy with a full schedule. To earn money the boys sold hot dogs and coffee at home football games and sponsored the sale of Wahawk seat cushions. They also held a paper drive to secure something for the new school.

Social events included a fun night, a dinner for members and their dates, and the annual banquet in honor of their parents. Not to be overlooked were the two initiations for new members.

Gary Hayes and Jay Cohen were presidents first and second semesters respectively. Mr. Bob Siddens and Mr. Donald Strahan were sponsors.

After outstanding performances in football, basketball, and track, Dell Bernstein was elected Most Valuable Athlete. He is pictured beside the plaque where his name will be placed with past outstanding West High sportsmen.

VARSITY FOOTBALL

The Wahawk gridiron team, coached by George Dutcher and Don Blue, completed its season with a 1-8 record.

Eight returning lettermen, only one of whom had been a regular previously, were on hand for the season's opening. A tough schedule and some rough breaks left the "pigskin pushers" often outscored but never outfought; however, the season was a success when measured in good sportsmanship and fair play. One of the highlights of the season was the trip to Lincoln, Nebraska, where the team played the state's mythical champions.

Bob Brandhorst was elected honorary captain by his team mates.

This year's sophomores finished with an impressive record of four wins and two ties. After tying the East High sophomores in the first game, they bounced back to defeat them 24-0 in their next meeting.

Jim Young, chosen captain of the team, broke two West High records, scoring a total of 380 points and hitting 50.4 per cent of his field shots.

This year's team was the highest scoring in the history of West, a record only partially accredited to the new "one-and-one" free throw rule.

The team is looking forward to another fine season next year when all but two of the varsity squad will be returning.

WRESTLING

With a minimum of lettermen, West's wrestlers compiled a respectable record of eight wins and three losses. Competition was keen as 22 boys competed in the eleven weight classes throughout the season.

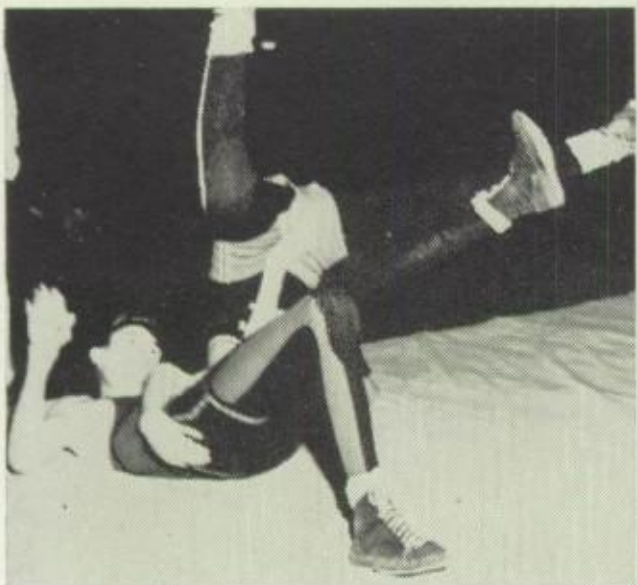

A very commendable performance was turned in by Jack Koehn, who didn't become a starter until the middle of the season but who went on to win the state championship in the 95-pound class. Larry Moser finished as runner-up in the 112-pound class at both the state and district tournaments. Gene Luttrell, though he failed to place in the state tournaments, won the district championship at 103. Lawrence Clough compiled an outstanding record of seven falls and two decisions in nine matches before he graduated at midterm.

Eighteen boys competed on the reserve team, which won nine of ten meets.

Varsity Baseball

Eight returning lettermen formed the nucleus of the West 1953 baseball team. The boys, hampered by cold and wet weather, got a late start in competitive play.

Early in the season the diamondmen lost their chance to compete in Big Six Conference in an East-West game which they lost 7-2. West defeated their first four opposing teams and later met Mason City, St. Mary's, Waverly, Charles City, Dike, Hudson, and participated in the state series. Three games were played with East under lights.

Starting out the season with wins over the East High sophomores and Sacred Heart varsity, the sophomore baseball team showed great promise for a successful year.

At midseason, the team, coached by George Dutcher, lost some of its players to varsity action.

TRACK

With twelve returning letter winners, the West cindermen had a successful 1953 season in track and field competition.

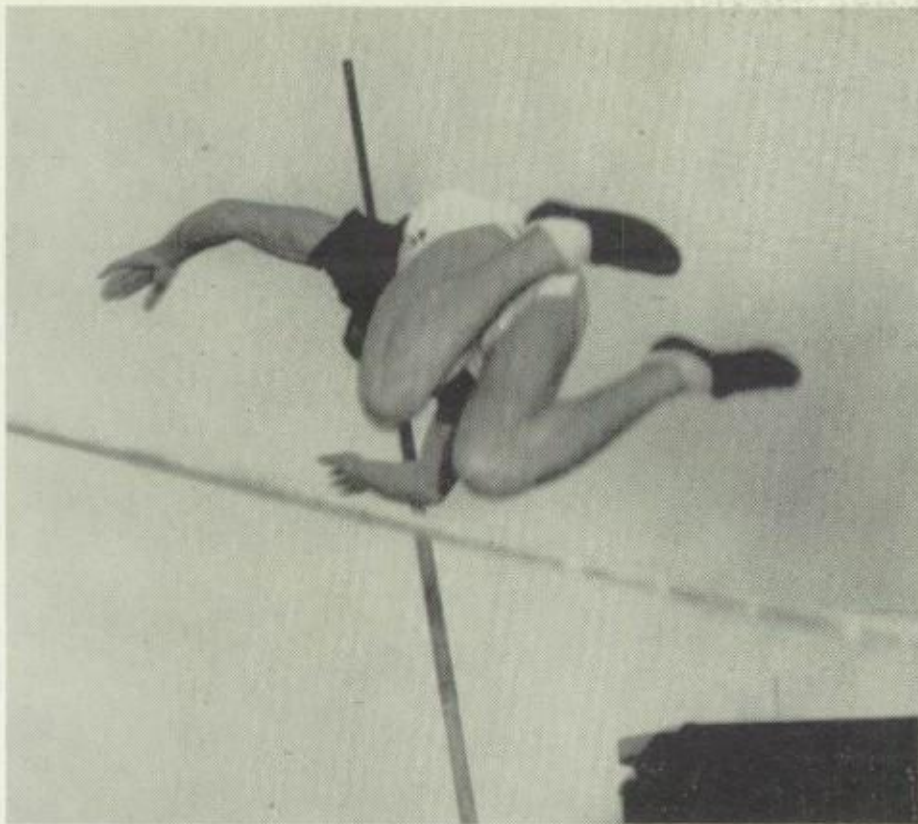

The first victory of the year came in a triangular win over East Waterloo and Dubuque which was followed by another victory over East. State indoor and outdoor meets, the Comet Relays, the T. C. Relays, and the renowned Drake Relays made up the schedule for the remainder of the season.

The close of the season came with a fine record which the thinclads had reason to remember with pride.

TENNIS

Netmen began practice at the new Byrnes Park courts faced with a full season. The first meet was a triangular with East Waterloo and Dubuque, which West won, and later in the season they met Independence, East Waterloo, Dubuque, Grinnell, Mason City, and competed in Big Six, district, and state meets.

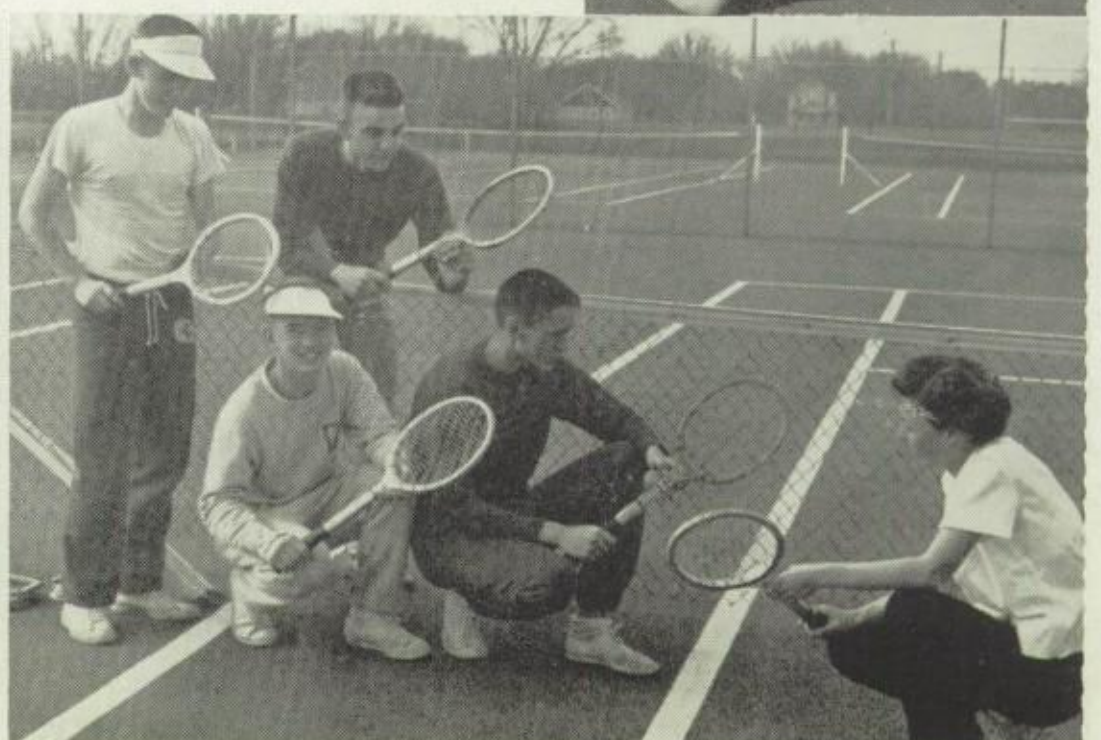

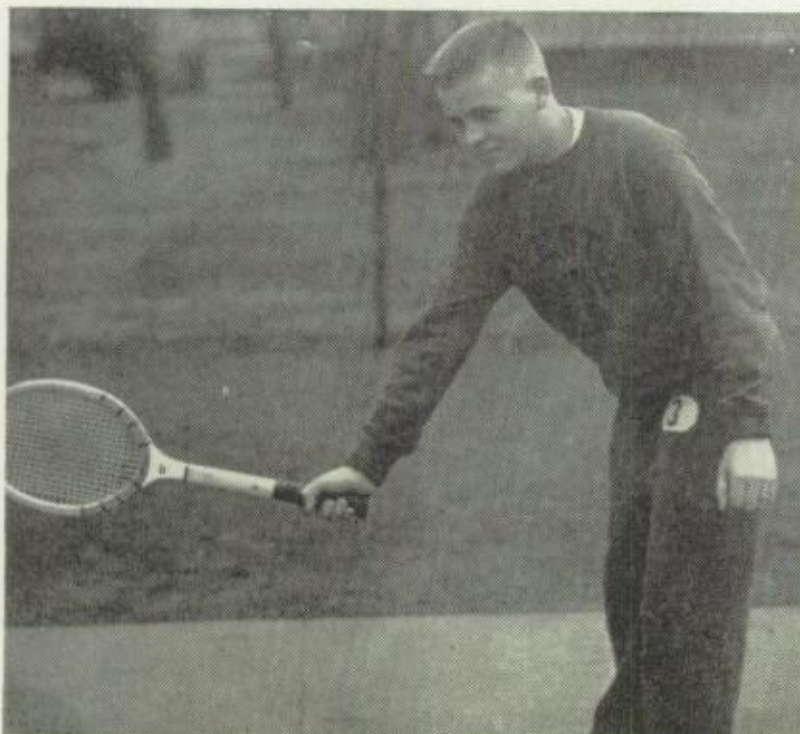

Miss Doris Jensen completed her second year as Wahawk tennis coach with an excellent record.

RIFLE TEAM

The West High Rifle Team elected the following officers for the 1952-53 season: Philip Miller, president; Russell Oleson, vice-president; Bill Ogle, secretary; and Larry Crowe, treasurer. Mr. Willis Haugen was sponsor.

A total of nineteen matches was fired during the season, four of which were national matches promoted by the National Rifle Association. The team finished in the upper quarter of division B.

Letterwinners were Lee Adler, John Bonner, Larry Crowe, Jim Grannemen, Edwin Jacobs, Philip Miller, Bill Ogle, Russell Oleson, and Norman Sharar.

SYNCHRONIZED SWIMMING

Grace and rhythm have been introduced into senior high swimming this year through the newly organized synchronized swimming group.

The thirteen girls, under the direction of Miss Jensen, spent a lot of after-school hours preparing for their swimminig show, "Calendar Splashes."

In order to qualify for membership to this group, the girls had to be advanced swimmers and had to have a willingness to co-operate with the group.

G. A. A.

Girls' Athletic Association, headed by Beverly Perkins and sponsored by Miss Doris Jensen, aimed for more sports interest on the part of Wahawk girls.

Among its various activities were basketball, golf, bowling, tennis, and volleyball.

Highlighting its busy year was a series of basketball games between the six teams.

Another major activity was a volleyball tournament.

In the social line the forty members held a picnic at Byrnes Park.

Back Stage

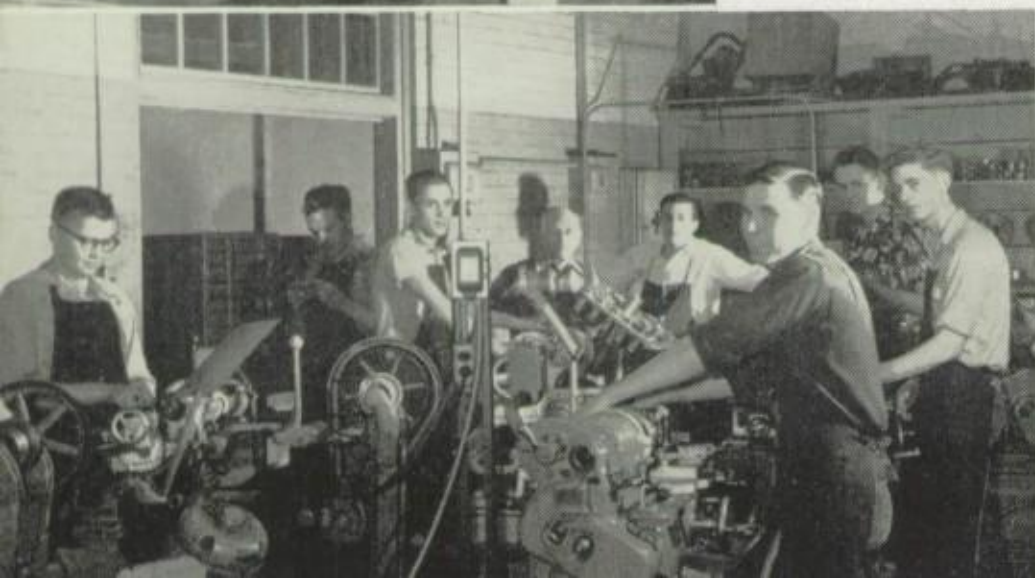

Wahawk

- September 2 — Once again delightful summer vacation is over and classes resume in Wahawk camp. Wasn't it fun to see familiar faces?
- September 10 — Philomel initiation. Didn't they look ridiculous?
- September 13 — First football game! The team, the crowd, everyone was literally soaked.
- September 15 — Student Senate installation. Looks as if we're in for an excellent semester under those fine officers.
- September 18 — Football team got a big send-off for Lincoln, Nebraska.
- September 19 — Moonlight dance honoring the sophomores was a huge success and lot of fun.
- September 26 — Twenty-fifth annual Homecoming. It was fun seeing familiar faces and entertaining past "squaws and chiefs."
- October 1 — Picture day. Smile at the birdie — these go in the annual.
- October 3 — Band toured to Fort Dodge. A bushel of apples and a gallon of root beer and pandemonium in the back of the bus.
- October 7 — No matter who the villain was, he influenced everyone to buy an annual in the big kick-off assembly presented by the WAHAWK staff.
- October 11 — Varsity Club initiation. Grab your ankles, boys. Those paddles are going to hurt.
- October 23 — Opening night for Father of the Bride. And then the great wiener roast at Beem's for the entire cast.
- November 4 — In a straw election we elected Eisenhower and Nixon.
- November 7 — East-West clash — Oh well, the game was better than the score, and besides the mums were beautiful.
- November 26 — Thanksgiving vacation—hurrah for the turkey!
- December 11 — Mr. Johnson's birthday, and some thoughtful chemists made him a real cake with candles. (31 of them.)
- December 12 — East-West basketball game.
- December 17 — Christmas program. All the work was worth the time when the "Hallelujah Chorus" filled the auditorium for the last time.

Diary

- December 19 — Vacation again! The nicest part of school. Merry Christmas, gang.
- December 29 — Varsity Club banquet. Ummm — those delicious french fried onions!
- January 5 — Back to class to note the new attire of Santa's little favorites.
- January 8 — Lullaby Follies presented to students.
- January 21 — Semester tests. Gosh, how could I forget so much?
- January 26 — Beginning of new semester. Well, seniors, this is it. Eighteen more weeks. That's all.
- February 2-4 — Speech finals were held among Wahawk speakers to see who would represent West.
- February 12 — An Evening with Music, annual concert.
- February 28 — Jack Koehn is state champ. Pretty big title for such a little guy.
- March 9 — Report cards again. Some good — others? There must have been some mistake.
- March 10 — Award assembly for wrestlers, basketball players, cheerleaders, riflemen, and trainers. Aren't they proud of those new W's?
- March 20 — First Variety show rehearsal with complete cast. Looks like a tremendous show is in the offing.
- April 3-7 — Easter spring vacation.
- April 6 — Dress rehearsals of variety show.
- April 9, 10, 11 — Rhythm and Rhyme in West High Time. Sho Tyme was a tremendous success.
- April 16-18 — Shenandoah speech contest. Some fun, eh gang?
- April 21 — Music department banquet at Ti-Pi-Tin Inn.
- April 24-25 — Drake Relays. West broke two records — shot-put, and mile relay.
- May 15 — Junior-Senior Prom. The band, the night, your date — something you'll never forget.
- May 31 — Baccalaureate — The last time in West's auditorium for the seniors.
- June 2 — Commencement — The day we've waited for. And we only hope underclassmen will think of us when singing "From our halls still echo footsteps, of Alumni true . . ."

Homecoming

Two hundred fifteen alumni attended West High's 25th annual Homecoming activities on September 26. The class of 1943 was honored.

To begin the activities, the Philomel girls honored past members at a banquet in Black's tea-room on Wednesday evening, September 24.

Events of Homecoming Day began with a pep assembly, featuring the pep girls in a skit on changing times at West. Mike Giltner spoke for the honored class, and representatives of the past 25 years were introduced. Following the assembly, the alumni were honored at a tea. The gridiron team met with Mason City for an exciting Homecoming game, after which students and alumni attended the moonlight dance; this concluded another eventful Homecoming.

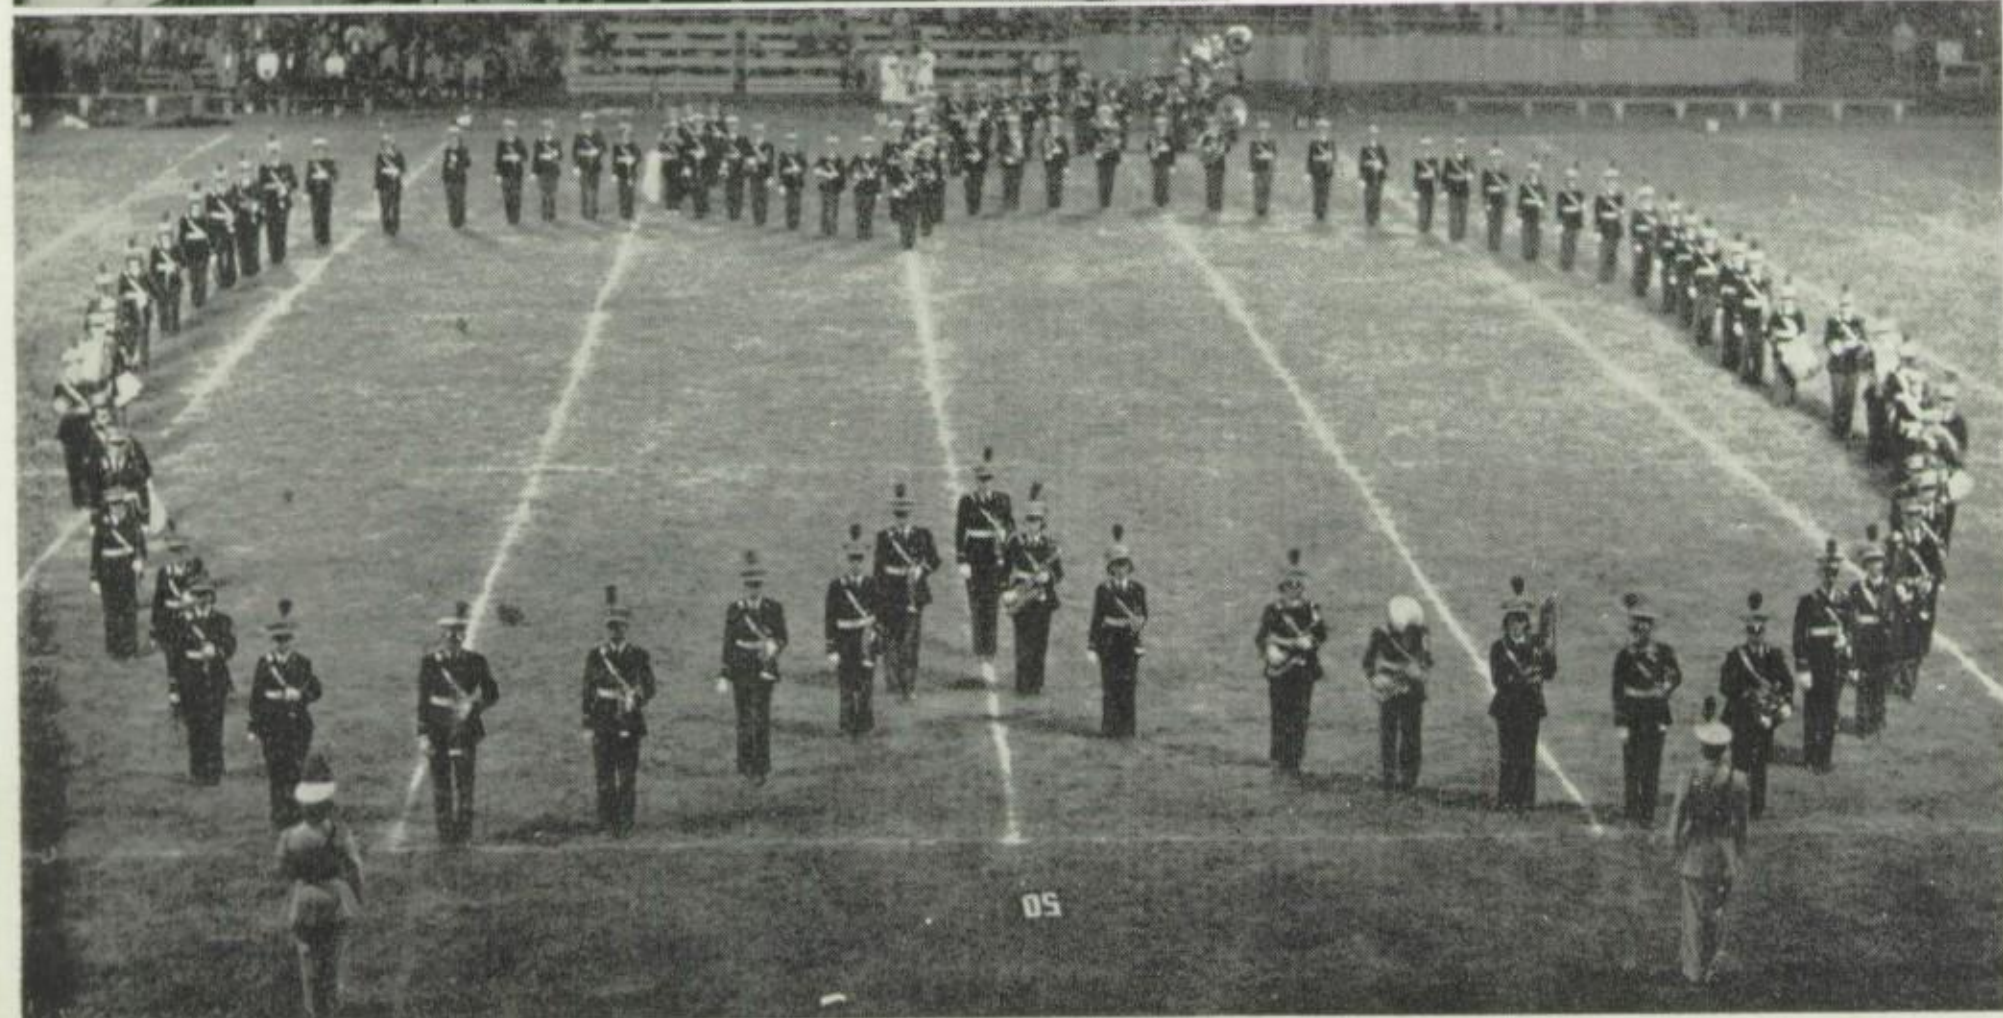

John Beem and Barbara Junger register Robert Walker, class of '29, who was main speaker for the assembly.

Alumni are welcomed at a Homecoming tea held in their honor.

An apple for the teacher is presented at half-time.

Christmas Program

The Christmas spirit was extended on December 17 and 18 when the two-hundred twenty voices of the combined junior and senior high chorus, directed by Marvin Easter, and the orchestra, under the direction of Richard Baker, presented the annual Christmas program of music. Traditional bell ringers and candle-lighting opened the program along with a newly organized brass choir. Scripture reading added to the beauty of the scene.

Vocal solos included "Oh, Holy Night," Craig Campell; "Beautiful Savior," Kay Corson; "Ave Maria," Marlin McCann; "As Lately We Watched," Janet Neidt.

Closing the program was another traditional number, the "Hallelujah Chorus" from Handel's "Messiah."

LULLABY FOLLIES

When Priscilla Persephone fell asleep in the woods on January 8, 1953, she dreamed up a sparkling dance assembly, "Lullaby Follies." Priscilla went for a walk, and, growing tired, she decided to take a nap. Her dream included everything

Have you ever lived in an imaginary world? Here we see Priscilla, alias Connie Ross, engrossed in the pages of her favorite nursery rhyme book as she sets the scene for "Lullaby Follies."

from a glowworm to paper dolls and a red wagon

The program, sponsored by Terpsichorea, Pavlovians, and the girls' and boys' taplines, was one of this year's most popular assemblies.

But what have we here? It's a friendly glowworm to play with Priscilla. Even if it's only a dream, our "Terps" girls give an excellent rendition of a catchy tune.

Every little girl plays with paper dolls, and Priscilla is no exception. Here we have a whole string of "real live" dollies which she has just finished cutting.

Look at the real Chinese "Sleepy Time Gals" who appear to tap into our heroine's dreams. Do you suppose Priscilla would like to dance with some of them?

The movies which a little girl attends are often Walt Disney originals but not those of Priscilla's choice. She likes the wild westerns starring the real wild "West" cowgirls.

ASSEMBLIES

Dr. No-Yong Park, speaking to the students in an inspiring address of the Far East, gave everyone much food for thought.

Pruth McFarlin, radio and concert tenor, accompanied by Miss Sarah Hedrick, provided top vocal entertainment.

Mr. Emil Liers enlightened the student body on the life and habits of the otter and entertained us by actually showing his two trained otters.

Terry Golden and his wife brought song and dance in true ballad style. Student participation in square dancing and ballad singing made the program unusually pleasing and entertaining to the student body.

An excellent musical trio, sponsored by the University of Minnesota, entertained us with soprano and tenor solos as well as some piano numbers.

Magrum, master of magic, surprised Paul Sisson and Steve Showers with some of his mystifying feats.

"There's No Business Like Show Business," and West High students proved it with their 1953 variety show, "Sho-Tyme." In a delightful atmosphere of "Rhythm and rhyme in West High time," the Wahawks played to four capacity audiences.

The swing band, which played a large part in making the show a success, entertained the patrons with snappy tunes such as "St. Louis Blues March," and "Southern Fried." Trumpeter Gary Yarrington, aptly called "The Young Man with the Horn," was a hit in his own right.

Singing their way to the top with "It's a Grand Night for Singing," "Louisiana Hayride," and "Sweet Sixteen" were the Harmoners, the newly-organized boys' chorus.

Dancing made up a large part of the show, with Terpsichorea, two boys' and six girls' taplines taking the lead. The "Flippant Flappers" scored a hit with their version of the Charleston. (Those boys should have lived in the "Roaring Twenties!") On the more classical side, there were three excellent ballet dances, the sophisticated "Jazz Legato," by Claudia Williams, perhaps the most unusual. Strictly for the birds were the four woody woodpeckers, one of the peppiest groups of the show, while "The Old Gray Mare," mystified the farmer with tricky dance steps. The dance instructors scored a hit in their version of the "Johnson Rag," which took the breath of the audience (and the band.) Giving the "Devil," Gary Hayes, a rough time was "Angel," Iva Jane McKinley, in the clever act "Satan Takes a Holiday."

Jay Cohen and Dick Lukes tickled audiences' "funny bones" with some clown antics, and also along the humorous line was Meriem Scholl's original reading, "Oh, Johnny."

From the first rough plans to the final curtain, it was lots of hard work and lots more fun, but all participants were assured that "There's No Business Like Show Business."
